Shelter Structures in Prime Time - Security Shelters Take Center Stage

Recently, one of our security shelters was visible on the TV show "The Blacklist!" The Pentagon is using our shelter as a post 9/11 security inspection checkpoint.

Structures like this one, being used as covered security checkpoints at the entrance to the Pentagon, are widely utilized, especially during times of heightened security.

For example, The Department of Homeland Security has mandated inspection for people and freight at all border crossings. But constructing conventional buildings to serve as inspection stations can be an expensive proposition. We offer a cost-effective alternative-tensioned fabric security shelters for security inspections.

Our security shelters can be custom built to your specific needs. We will provide our own recommendations to make sure that the shelter meets all of your needs, and can usually have the shelter installed and fully functional in just 4-6 weeks!
